Biography

I grew up in the Engadine region and have been cross-country skiing since I can remember, always happily chasing after my two sisters Selina and Elisa. When I was seven years old, I started artistic gymnastics and then went to the gym several times a week for the next ten years. After my greatest success of becoming Swiss Vice-Champion in the category 6 competition, and my fully packed weekly schedule with cross-country skiing training, piano lessons and everyday school life at secondary school, I wanted to concentrate on just one thing. It was at this time that my two older sisters gave me a biathlon rifle for my confirmation, and this is how I discovered my passion for biathlon. I already took part in the elite-level World Championships and in World Cups during my youth and junior years, and even competed in two Olympic Winter Games (Sochi 2014 and PyeongChang 2018). In the 2019/20 season, Selina, Elisa, Lena Häcki and I achieved three historic World Cup podium finishes in the women's relay. In 2022, I won Switzerland's first relay medal at the Biathlon European Championships. Since then, I have finished in the top 10 several times in the World Cup and secured 11th place as the best Swiss woman in the mass start at the World Championships at home in Lenzerheide in 2025. The very next week, I won a historic World Cup gold medal in the single mixed relay together with Niklas Hartweg.
